Your Fail-Safe Heart

Unto thee, O God, do we give thanks, [unto thee] do we give thanks: for [that] thy name is near thy wondrous works declare. (Psalm 75:1)

Your heart will beat some 100,000 times today. That's over 36 million heartbeats a year and over 2.5 billion times in a 70-year life span.

A healthy heart ticks along, producing beat after beat, whether we are awake or asleep. If we become more active, the heart increases its beating to meet the increasing needs of the rest of our body.

Doctors tell us that it's amazing how few of these beats are faulty. They say that it's perfectly normal for even a healthy heart to produce an occasional irregular heart beat. Sometimes an irregular heartbeat is noticeable, but most often it's not. Doctors say that when your heart seems to skip a beat, it has really only beat prematurely. The premature beat leaves a pause before the next regular beat, making it feel as if your heart skipped a beat.

The clockwork precision of the heart's continuing beats is controlled by a built- in pacemaker. The pacemaker, called the sinus node, is a group of cells in the heart's upper right chamber. However, research has shown that every cell in the heart is able to send the electrical signal needed to produce a heartbeat if the sinus node fails. Using highly complex computer models, medical researchers have only begun to understand the electrical action within the heart.

The human heart is much more than a pump, as once believed. It is also a computer and regulator. Every beat of this wondrously designed biological machine glorifies the Creator Who made it!

Missionary of the Month

Christoph & Stephanie Zaiser (nee deSouza)

It is important to us that people all over the world hear of God's love and have the opportunity to get to know Jesus Christ. And how can you get to know Jesus better than through his word, the Bible ?!

Unfortunately, a complete Bible is only available in about 10% of all languages in the world!

With the New Testament it looks a bit better, but not very exhilarating either. Only about 30% of all languages have at least one New Testament.

Therefore we want to help that the Bible is translated into even more languages of this world and so that even more people can get to know Jesus. For this purpose, we will probably travel with Wycliff to the Southern Africa region in the spring of 2022 in order to support a translation team there with the skills we were able to learn during our studies.

You too can become part of this work and help through your prayers, your donations and other practical support so that people from all nations and languages can hear about God's love and get to know Jesus Christ!

Dear Pastors and friends,

We want to thank everyone who has prayed for us during our trip to New Brunswick beginning September 1st. It was good timing—we were there before Covid-19 numbers began to rise again.

The men's retreat was well attended with eighty-five people present. The singing of those men was as good as gets. I preached a series on the secret sin of the mind, the danger of it, and the deliverance of it. The way the men responded, I can say it was not only needed, but well received.

We had the privilege also of reporting, and preach at FBC with Pastor Keith Boss. It is always good to rekindle our friendship. Ginette and I were able to spend an evening with my first pastor, Pastor Burrill, and his wife. They celebrated 74 years of marriage; I have never heard nor seen such a long relationship! Their example is unbelievable. On Labor Day Pastor Anderson and Shane Lomax took me out bear hunting. We saw four bears, took a shot at two of them, but I missed them both. It still was an great time. More from Jacques and Ginette Brind'Amour in another bulletin.

Just For Fun

- Maybe if we told people the brain was an app they'd start using it.
- Welcome to middle age. No one tells you that rigour mortis starts while you're still alive.
- I wonder what part of my brain, that used to store people's phone numbers, is doing nowadays?
- Rich people have fancy labels on their clothes. Happy people have cat hairs on theirs.
- If you find a four leaf clover and poison ivy on the same day, you'll get a rash of good luck.
